RACING

Racing has been in Lotus' genes from day one. Anthony Colin Bruce Chapman founded the Lotus Engineering Company in 1952 so he could build race cars. From the historic pre-eminence in Formula 1 Grand Prix racing, right up to the modern-day Elise, Lotus has always had an outstanding pedigree in racing.

In the next few pages, you'll find lots of inspiration to bring your Lotus up to racetrack specification – from harnesses to uprated brake kits and quick release steering wheels.

WHEELS, BRAKES AND SUSPENSION

Much of Lotus' long-established ability to make exciting, desirable cars stems from bringing together their world-renowned expertise in driving dynamics, design and performance. And Lotus extends this knowledge to every aspect of its cars including wheels, brakes and suspension.

Here, you'll be able to choose from aesthetics and performance-based enhancements to your wheels like forged alloys. And you'll also be able to choose from brake upgrades to provide you with increased stopping power.
